

Dogs!

If working dogs are involved I'm in. I have had working dogs my entire life but in the last several years have really focused on learning more about training herding dogs. Always had a buddy that would help with stock but stepping up to an actual plan with training has been WOW! We are still novice but just participating and being around the big dogs (Open Handlers) is inspiring enough to keep practicing at home.

I also have been training my dogs in pulling a sled, bike and SAR scent detection. The fun never ends with these amazing companions. I say lets go and they bounce up and say how far.

I live with 7 dogs and each brings a unique personality to the table. I learn from each one, which helps me train the other. Someday I will be good enough to make my dogs proud.
