

Noelle Williams

I bought my first Border Collie in 1986 and raised natural color sheep for handspinning fleeces in Alaska with Dan Williams. Training dogs to work sheep was a very new thing for Alaska and I fell in love with it. For the next couple decades, I helped increase the knowledge of training and trialing of herding dogs, and helped to form the Alaska State Herding Club, serving as president at some point. In 2005, Dan, my son and I moved to Deer Park, WA, where I continued with Jumpin' Double Ewe Farm Border Collies and dog training. I breed and sell pups and trained dogs, give training/trialing guidance, local herding demos and organize the Shaded Heart Sheepdog Trial. .
